

The beneficial effects of living with devoted and playful pets on the physical and psychological well-being of their owners are vast and undeniably proven through scientific research.

In the middle of these beneficial reciprocal relationships between humans and animals are the dedicated and competent practitioners of veterinary medicine who strive with consummate training and skill to cope with the myriad of diseases and injuries that affect these animals.

NFVS's Mini-Veterinary program is where people and science come together. You will learn about the causes and treatments of the conditions that affect your pets, as well as some of the latest advances in veterinary medicine.

The Mini-Veterinary School is a five-week series of lectures by the most accomplished and dynamic veterinary professionals in the area.

For two hours Tuesday evenings October 2, 9, 16, 23 and 30, they will lead you on a fascinating journey of discovery. Each lecture will be a "course" in a subject covered in veterinary school.

Mini-Veterinary School graduates will not be eligible to practice veterinary medicine, but will have a better understanding of their pets' health! They will, however, receive a certificate attesting to the completion of 10 hours of veterinary science.
